Examiner's Amendment

An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

George Ayvazov gave approval of this amendment in a telephone interview on June 30, 2005.

The application has been amended as follows:

In claim 1, at the end of line 20, after "vaness", the following was inserted: ", and wherein said fluid is forced from the set of vanes exhibiting a higher speed to the set of vanes with a lower speed."

Claims Allowed

Claims 1-9 are allowable over the prior art of record. The claims are allowable because the prior art does not anticipate nor render obvious the claimed combination of: a differential assembly having a limited slip differential capability, said differential comprising: a differential casing; a pair of side gears oppositely situated in and rotatably supported by said differential casing; a pinion shaft arranged at right angle to the axis of the side gears and fixed to the differential casing at both ends thereof; a plurality of pinions rotatably mounted on the pinion shaft and adapted to mesh with the side gears; and a fluid coupling disposed between one of said side gears and said differential casing, wherein said fluid coupling comprising: a first impeller provided with a first set of vanes and operably connected to one of said side gears; a second impeller provided with a second set of vanes and operably connected to said differential casing so that said first set of vanes is facing said second set of vanes; and a viscous fluid disposed between said first set of vanes and said second set of vanes, and wherein said fluid is forced from the set of vanes exhibiting a higher speed to the set of vanes with a lower speed.

No particular single feature of the claim renders the claim as a whole patentable. Only the claim taken as a whole combination is deemed new and unobvious.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Prior Art Discussed

The examiner has considered the references cited by applicant in his Information Disclosure Statement filed concurrently with the application. None of the references show all of the features of the invention. In particular, what is not shown is a kind of fluid coupling, typically called a hydrodynamic, or hydrokinetic, fluid coupling between a side gear and a differential housing. The viscous couplings shown was not deemed equivalent to the fluid coupling claimed because they operate on different principles.

The references cited by the examiner are deemed pertinent to applicant's disclosure, yet none of them show a hydrodynamic coupling between a side gear and a differential housing.
